It was a very special experience indeed - staying in a marina, with your own private sauna is something most of people don't ever get to do. Plus, was really nice to be out of the city hassle and stay in the countryside. It's worth mentioning that we heated up sauna in the evening and went to sleep 30-60min afterwards. Unfortunately the air was rather dry and stuffed and it was hard to breath / fall asleep. We did open all the windows to get more air in, but didn't feel comfortable with open windows all night long - so I suggest you to make sauna a bit earlier perhaps :) Also be aware that it's not possible to charge your mobile phone (or use any other electricity apart from LED lights).

Jakob is a genuinely lovely and friendly person with a passion for his fantastic creation, the sauna raft! He was happy to help answer my many questions through correspondence and was waiting for us exactly where and when we'd arranged. The raft itself is an incredible place to stay with a gorgeous view - and the sauna works so well! Between that and the effective heating you will not be cold, and you hardly ever feel the raft move on the sea. Just be aware that it is quite an adventurous, physical place to stay - half an hour walk to the 'mainland', plus the facilities are obviously pretty rustic, the walkway around the edge is narrow and the ladders to the upper level a little demanding and tricky - exciting and no problem for us but I don't think my mother could handle it! If you like the look of it, you will LOVE the reality :) Thank you Jakob!

This place is amazing! What a beautiful place and such a cool hand-crafted structure - simple but clearly made with love. It's a cross between camping and staying in a cabin, so you need to be ok with roughing it a little and also have a so-so level of fitness to climb up and down into the sleeping loft. It is such a beautiful harbor and unique experience that we were so glad we stayed here instead of downtown Oslo.

Private note

We loved your small handcrafted signs! Maybe get some standard pillows? The pillowcases only could cover 1 of the pillows.

Jakob was very friendly and met us at the marina. He was easy to contact with any questions we had. The Sauna Ra2,ft was very will thought out and built. Great place to relax in a quiet marina. We enjoyed puttering around in a smaller boat with an electric motor. It was so quiet we could take an early vvmorning boat trip without waking any neighbors. The neighbors were friendly and we were given an invitation to visit a local resident. He told us to come up anytime and give his door a knock (we didnt get to sadly). The sauna was perfect to warm up in and made the loft bed cosy. Also great for pre warming your clothes and geting dressed on cold mornings.

This was our second stay at the sauna raft, so it's no surprise we really like it. Even though it was May the Norwegian weather gods barely allowed us to grill some food in the sun before they skies turned grey and the drizzle started. However, when on a floating sauna, that's far from a problem, and after some time in the heat, the rain and cold sea were suddenly very inviting. :-) Jakob is friendly and easy to communicate with and everything was smooth.

The Sauna Raft Wasa is an incredible experience. It is basic, like camping but oh so warm and the sauna is bliss. Watching the sun rise over the water with your head still on your pillow is an experience you'll find hard to beat and BBQing on the roof whatever the weather is fun. Jakob is an absolute star. I was an idiot and failed to follow instructions and got myself lost but Jakob phoned immediately and talked me through my steps to getting back on track. What a hero. Not to mention an utter genius having created this marvellous abode. Staying here is a once in a lifetime opportunity I can't recommend highly enough.

Private note

Thank you so much Jakob. We had a fantastic stay :) I couldnt find gas for the cooking stove which would have been an added bonus but we certainly managed without. Thanks once again for your patience helping me find the keys.

This place is just incredible. A bit out of the way from central Oslo, and certainly a decent walk from the train. But I cannot stress enough how worthwhile it is to stay here. The raft is just great, and the marina it is located in is fantastic as well. Highly recommended.

Jakob responds quick, he is friendly, and professional. In short: Jakob cares about his guests. We started our trip to Norway on his raft and stayed for one wonderful night. It took us a while to find it, but thanks to Jakob's detailed and basically foolproof descriptions we ended up spending a very peaceful night on the raft and enjoyed a morning sauna and swim before continuing our trip north. We would wholeheartedly recommend you stay here and will come back ourselves as soon as we come back to visit Norway again.

Where to begin!? My childhood friend and I made an impromptu trip to the Oslo area and we were thrilled to find this gem of a place to stay for two nights. Jakob's sauna raft was our best Airbnb find yet and easily the best part of our trip. He was an absolute joy and pleasure to communicate and work with- very honest, friendly, helpful, and welcoming. He was easy to reach for assistance and questions via text. As two young, foreign female travelers, we immediately felt very comfortable with Jakob and would recommend his raft to any of our family and friends. We could have stayed at a cliche chain hotel in the city, but this raft was a fun, adventurous, unique Norwegian experience that we will never forget. Getting to the raft (either by Jakob's small electric boat or a few minute walk across the marina and around the shore) and up the ladder to the loft are somewhat physically challenging so I would caution elderly or handicapped guests on that. But I am 7- months pregnant and have a broken foot in a walking boot and managed just fine! That was part of what made the experience so fun (or funny) and memorable for us! We stayed plenty warm despite the nighttime temps dropping below freezing so this is a place that can be comfortably stayed in in any season. Building a fire in the sauna was easy and fun. We really enjoyed playing Scrabble and cards while taking in the gorgeous scenery and local life around us. Don't bring too much luggage as there isn't room for it and it will be difficult to get it out to the raft. Jakob provides pretty much everything you need so no need to pack any real gear. We found it easiest to use a taxi for transportation to and from the gates of the marina (mostly because of the broken foot) but everything you need and public transportation are all within reasonable walking distance. If you're looking for absolute comfort, lots of amenities, or a place to do your hair, this is probably not the right spot for you. But if you're an adventurous person who enjoys the outdoors, doesn't mind camping, and who is looking for a unique, fun experience, then we highly recommend Jakob's sauna raft!

We had a wonderful weekend on the sauna raft in mid October! Jakob was friendly, welcoming and very helpful with directions and how to get around the raft. The raft itself was amazing! Such a unique and fun experience, we enjoyed BBQing on the deck, the sauna and showering with a bucket! The bed was cozy and we slept well. We also enjoyed riding around the island on the motor boat that also comes with the raft. The local area of Bygdøy is beautiful to walk around, especially with all the autumnal trees! It was an easy journey into Oslo, just two train stops away to Oslo central station. We highly recommend a stay and will hopefully be returning ourselves!

The place was amazing. Jakob did a great job in creating it. It was nice to get away from cities for a day after traveling for a while. We didn't even turn on the heat when we went to bed (November 5th) and we were fine. Make use of the raft to transport your things. The walk isn't bad if you have a backpack but if you're carrying a suitcase it would be much easier to use the raft. Jakob was very interested in hearing feedback so I'm sure it will only get better and better.

Staying at the sauna raft was a awesome and special experience! We are Norwegians and we live in Oslo, but we wanted to have a small get-away. Jakob's sauna raft was the perfect place! We went there for one night in december, and it was so nice and cozy to sit inside the hot sauna while it was snowing outside. There is plenty of firewood. The kitchen/first floor area is spartan, but we had everything we needed. The candle lights made it really cozy as we cooked our evening meal (tacos) and drank some red wine. The floors are cold in winter, naturally, but the sleeping alcove is very warm and comfortable. Communication with Jakob went smoothly. We loved staying at the sauna raft, and will definitely try to come back in the summer so that we can use the roof top as well! We warmly recommend Jakob's sauna raft to anyone looking for a special and cool place to stay in Oslo.

If you're expecting a five star all-pampering hotel - think again, as this unique accommodation, floating in the harbour is far from waking up on goose down pillows and running hot water, but if you're open to the idea of waking with the light reflecting off the water, to the gentle rocking of the houseboat as smaller craft sail past, being tucked away in one of the most beautiful parts of the city, and an experience you'll remember forever - then perhaps give it a go, you'll not regret it.

Highly recommend this to anyone looking to add a little adventure to there holiday.

This was a very unique and rustic way to experience the beautiful harbor life of Norway. The sauna felt amazing after a long day of travel and hiking. It was a 3km walk from the train station which was a little tough with our luggage, so you may wish to look into taking the bus. We slept great but were initially concerned upon seeing the shag pillow. However there was fresh linen and pillow case to cover it up. There were many ducks swimming around us in the raft and we also saw starfish and friendly harbor cats roaming the docks. Overall it was a great experience and we recommend it to others. Great work on the sauna raft and thanks for sharing Jakob!

Jakob was a very welcoming and helpful host we stayed here our first night in oslo and he quickly helped us figure out food, public transportation and country norms. The house boat was awesome and quaint, a little bit of a hike out of the city but worth it! Upon arrival Jakob showed us how to use the sauna and we're given access to a little electric boat, which facilitated travel and was fun to explore the harbour in! By far the coolest airb&b we have stayed in! be sure to ask Jakob about building it!

Jakob was very helpful upon our late arrival, seeing us round the harbour safely and giving us a tour of the raft. It had everything and more (even a boat!) and was warm and comfortable. The location is a little out of the way but a different and peaceful way of living whilst visiting Oslo. The quirks of the raft (sauna, bbq, etc.) were a great novelty. Jakob left us to it but was easily available via phone. Would definitely stay again :)

Jakob was great and accommodating and overall an amazing experience. Communication was perfect and the sauna boat itself, much the same. Keep in mind, as mentioned in other reviews, the boat is small and on the water. So if you have a lot of things, you'll need to find a separate space to stow all that luggage away. But that allows you to keep cozy and warm, and enjoy quite the experience that is being on a sauna that is a boat that is in a bay.

Jakob is a very nice and friendly host and his sauna raft is definitively a great and unique location to stay in Oslo. He built everything by himself and takes the time to explain all relevant features (there are even more features not mentioned in the official description). If needed, he even gives sightseeing recommendations and further tips for the time being in Oslo. Jakob was really flexible towards our requests and answered all our questions in advance. Even while not having much time in Oslo it's worth to spend some time out there and add some nature to the sightseeing!

The Sauna Raft was a truly unique experience for us. It was fun and different! I recommend it. As our flight was delayed we got to the marina quite later than anticipated and crossing the jetty in the dark was a bit unnerving! There were lights around it but still the torch was needed. We stayed two nights and that was enough in the winter I think, in the summer it might not be enough time at all! The kitchen facilities are basic but the host makes no bones about that, it adds to the rustic charm but is a bit inconvenient for making food without serious planning. Overall I found it very charming and we both loved the sauna raft.

Private note

The windows in the raft are cracked and on the windy night the wind had the room quite cold. But it was great apart from that and we loved it! The windows, kitchen facilities.
